Looking forward to 2023...

The New Year is always an exciting time of year with the start of calving season and the beginning of a new bull sale season. I hope the weather treats us all more favorably than it has in December with the snow and cold temperatures.

The past year, the association has assisted the South Dakota Junior Angus Association in hosting the Angus Summer Spotlight Show and the SDAA Futurity Show. I would like to thank all our membership and donors for the continuous support of our Angus Youth in South Dakota.

The SDAA with the assistance of several regional associations and the American Angus Association launched our Powered by Angus Radio Campaign for the 2022 sale season. The campaign was designed to promote registered Angus bulls and heifers in South Dakota over commercial black bulls and illustrate the value of a registration paper to our commercial bull and heifer buyers. We hope to continue this promotion this coming sale season.

We closed 2022 with our annual meeting held in Chamberlain. We were privileged to have Kelli Retallick-Riley with Angus Genetics Inc. as our guest speaker. She spoke on the importance of actual data collection on the accuracy of EPDs and how without phenotypic data the overall genetic progress of the Angus breed over the years would be slower. Actual data, genetic testing and EPDs are all pieces to determining the best future outcome, but one piece will not give you the whole puzzle.

The 2022 Angus Convention was hosted in Salt Lake City, Utah. It is always an event I look forward to every year to see my Angus friends and family and meet many breeders from all over the country. If you ever get the opportunity to attend, I would highly recommend. One of the highlights from the convention was the continuous push for disposal and cull data using Maternal Plus for a future longevity EPD. Our operation has benefited from Maternal Plus by knowing the reasons for our culls, CED, BW and WW EPD's on all enrolled cows' calves prior to registration and the ability to know how our herd trends compared to the average of the Angus breed. If you have any question on starting this program please contact the association staff.

The year 2023 is looking to be an exciting year with the Northwest region hosting the S.D. Angus tour, the hopeful completion of the new DEX Livestock Complex at the South Dakota State Fair and a new SDAA membership directory publication.

I hope this year brings great sales and ample moisture to all areas of South Dakota. May we continue to strive for the best as a breed and association. My closing thought and to quote our American Angus Association CEO, Mark McCully, "As I study business across all types of industries, I tend to find the most successful companies are the ones solving problems."

End of the Year Sale Stats in Region 6

It's always interesting to look on how the past year went in regards to Production Bull & Female sales in Region 6. Region 6 includes Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. The Angus breed is unique in that whatever your program needs or wants, you can find it within the entire population of the Angus breed. Commercial cattlemen drive the direction of the entire breed, not the American Angus Association. Although the averages are very impressive, you can find whatever you need at any price level.

It is interesting how business has changed on how we market Angus cattle. Before the internet, you had to actually attend the sale to purchase a bull, be on the phone or leave a bid with a field man or the owner. With 120 plus sales reported in Region 6 with the American Angus Association, the following stats, show how things have changed.

97.4% of all Region 6 Production Bull & Female sales offer online bidding.

88.6% of all Region 6 Production Bull & Female sales provide a video of the offering prior and during the sale.

54.4% of all Region 6 Production Bull & Female sales do not run cattle through a ring. Only video.

34.2% of all Region 6 Production Bull & Female sales run cattle through a sale ring and provide a video.

11.4% of all Region 6 Production Bull & Female sales only run cattle in the ring with no videos.

For the 2022 Fiscal Year Sale Reporting in this region, we marketed 9,040 Registered Angus Bulls with an average of $6,421 and 2,563 Registered Angus Females with an average of $4,035. Nationally we marketed 51,800 Registered Angus Bulls with an average of $5,909 and 21,395 Registered Angus Females for an average of $6,023.

Beef Leaders Institute

The American Angus Association is in search for individuals interested in applying for the Beef Leaders Institute (BLI) program. The mission behind BLI is to provide young producers, between the ages of 25-45, the opportunity to learn more about the Association and sectors of the beef business after cattle leave the farm or ranch while networking with their peers.

The week-long event starts at the American Angus Association where participants gain a better understanding of the programs and services offered by the Association. Throughout the week stops include a feedlot operation, a beef processing plant, a food service distribution facility, and retail store. The event concludes at Certified Angus Beef® in Wooster, Ohio. Participants experience all sectors of the beef industry, interact with production experts, and develop a larger vision to not only improve their operations back home but the entire industry.

The event date for 2023 is June 12-16. Applications are due by February 15. Keep in mind, Beef Leaders Institute is limited to 20 attendees each year. The Association will provide transportation during the BLI, as well as lodging, meals, and materials. The attendees will be responsible for their round-trip transportation between their home to Kansas City (if flying) or Saint Joseph (if driving) and their departure to home from Cleveland, Ohio (if flying) or Kansas City to get vehicle at the American Angus Association. Transportation from the Kansas City airport on both Sunday, June 11th and Friday, June 16th will be provided.

This is a once in a lifetime opportunity sponsored in part by the Angus Foundation and Certified Angus Beef®. I hope you consider submitting your application to gain a better understanding of the complete pasture-to-plate experience. Applications can be found online at <https://www.angus.org/Event/BLIEntryForm>.

With questions or for more information, you can contact me at 605-295-3673 or rgeppert@angus.org or contact Caitlin Brandt at 816-383-5189 or cbrandt@angus.org.

Once again, I look forward in helping cattlemen seek new herd sires or replacement females for their operation, in addition to answering questions about product and services of the American Angus Association. If you need assistance in understanding EPD and performance data that best fit your operation or help in marketing your business through the Angus Journal, Angus Beef Bulletin, and other Angus Media products, give me a call. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Please contact me by email rgeppert@angus.org or (605) 295-3673.

Come Sale Time, Target the Brand

Targeting the Brand™ helps identify quality herd sires.

With more data than ever on today's sire prospects, bull customers expect progress. Decisions Angus breeders made long before the gavel drops provide confidence and deliver on those anticipations.

The use of the Targeting the Brand™ logo in sale catalogs help both commercial cattlemen and seedstock producers advance their herds and orient them toward the Certified Angus Beef ® (CAB®) brand. To earn the logo, registered Angus cattle must have a minimum Marbling expected progeny difference (EPD) of +0.65 and a +55 Grid Value index ($G). This makes it easy to identify bulls with added carcass value, and potentially more dollars for your bottom line.

Missouri Angus breeder Josh Worthington has used Targeting the Brand™ since it launched in 2017. It's a free and easy tool for his customers to quickly pick out Angus cattle that meet certain carcass quality goals.

"Our program's built on the same metrics as what Targeting the Brand™ drives," he says. Last year 71 bulls or 97% of those in the Worthington Angus sale qualified.

Across the U.S. in the fall 2021 and spring 2022 sale seasons, more than 180 sales used the logo on 6,719 bulls, up from 5,872 a year earlier.

Those results show in the growing CAB acceptance rate, currently at 36% of black-hided cattle and aiming for 50%.

More than just a marketing tool for seedstock producers, use of the logo ensures commercial customers they're choosing bulls more likely to meet goals at the feedyard and packing plant.

"This provides comfort to prospective buyers who are looking to purchase calves that will hit a high-end grid premium," Worthington says. "They have confidence when they know their set of feeder calves are sired by bulls that meet the specs for Targeting the Brand™ and have the genetic potential to make Certified Angus Beef."

Commercial cattlemen communicate the premium value by marketing Angus-sired feeder calves through AngusLinkSM. Enrolling them in the program's Genetic Merit ScorecardSM (GMS) conveys a genetic snapshot based on the herd's breeding history by assigning scores for beef, feedlot and grid potential. Groups of calves can be marketed using the Targeting the Brand™ logo if they earn a grid score of 125+ and are sired by Angus bulls with a +0.65 marbling EPD or higher.

GMS scores range from 0 to 200, with 100 being the industry average. The higher the score, the greater the potential for any group of calves. This lets buyers consistently choose cattle that have documented information on how calves may gain and grade.

"In the feeder calf world, we're trying to capture value ahead of harvesting those calves," Worthington says. "Anything we can do to bring in those cattle and differentiate them within the marketplace helps."

With a primary responsibility of helping customers realize more value for better carcass genetics, he invests in opportunities for customers to better understand EPDs and the impact of carcass quality.

"We're not here to just sell them a bull. We're here to sell them a bull that meets their needs and then recoup the value of that investment in genetics," Worthington says.

Bull buyers want all the information they can get to back up their decisions. Feeder calf buyers feel the same need for confidence when they bid, he says.

"Targeting the Brand™ provides that security," Worthington says. "And we are able to build greater trust with our customers."

Make the Most of Targeting the Brand™

Q: Where can I find the logo for use?

A: Download Targeting the Brand™ resources at CABcattle.com/targeting-the-brand. The logo must be applied to each individual animal that meets requirements for marbling EPD and $G.

Q: Are cattle that meet Targeting the Brand™ requirements automatically considered "CAB qualifiers?"

A: No live cattle qualify for Certified Angus Beef. To be eligible, cattle must be predominantly black-hided and sold through a CAB-licensed packing plant. Earning the brand requires meeting all 10 of the brand's carcass specifications as determined by a USDA grader.

Q: If a bull meets Targeting the Brand™ requirements, can my customers use the Targeting the Brand™ logo to market their feeder calves?

A: Feeder calves must be enrolled in AngusLinkSM for the Genetic Merit ScorecardSM and have a 125+ grid score to tout the logo. Visit www.angus.org/anguslink for more information.

Growing the Future

By Kiera Leddy

Growing up not on a ranch does not always inhibit one’s exposure to production agriculture. Even though Evan Littau lives in Winner S.D., he plays an active role on his grandparent’s ranch. Evan Littau is the son of Luke and Jena Littau. He has two younger sisters, Allie and Kya. His grandparents, Bob and Becky Littau, raise Angus cattle at Littau Angus Ranch.

“My favorite part about Angus cattle is the good quality beef they produce,” Littau says.

As an eighth grader at Winner Middle School,

Littau is involved in football, wrestling, baseball, theatre, band, and 4-H. In 4-H, Littau shows goats, sheep, cattle, and chickens, and recently served as club treasurer. When he is not at school or at his grandparent’s ranch, Littau enjoys shooting archery. He is a member of the Tripp County Range Robins, which is a competitive archery team.

Littau’s grandparents gifted him a heifer when he was a baby to help him begin his herd. He retains the money from selling the calves to grow his college fund. Littau also shows his grandparent’s Angus genetics at

“At the Mid-Dakota Fair, I won overall prospect calf with my heifer Willow,” Littau says. “My grandparents have taught me a lot about animal care and feeding through showing cattle.”

Littau also helps prepare for the Littau Angus Ranch’s annual bull sale, which occurs on the last Tuesday in March. Littau helps get ready about 100 bulls by freeze branding, clipping, torching, and testing. When he is not helping prepare for the bull sale, he also helps with the ranch’s hay ground, cornfields, and rangeland. Littau enjoys calving season in addition to turning the ranch’s 400 cow-calf pairs out to pasture. The older Littau gets, the more responsibilities he is given on the farm.

“I enjoy going out to the farm to work with my siblings, uncles, and many cousins,” Littau says. “I like spending as much time as possible on my grandparent’s ranch.”

Even though Littau has four years of high

Evan Littau is involved in his grandparents, Bob and Becky Littau’s Angus Ranch.

school ahead of him, he plans to attend South Dakota State University and eventually become a veterinarian and continue raising Angus cattle.

harvesting those calves,” Worthington says. “Anything we can do to bring in those cattle and differentiate them within the marketplace helps.”

With a primary responsibility of helping customers realize more value for better carcass genetics, he invests in opportunities for customers to better understand EPDs and the impact of carcass quality.

“We’re not here to just sell them a bull. We’re here to sell them a bull that meets their needs and then recoup the value of that investment in genetics,” Worthington says.

Bull buyers want all the information they can get to back up their decisions. Feeder calf buyers feel the same need for confidence when they bid, he says.

“Targeting the Brand™ provides that security,” Worthington says. “And we are able to build greater trust with our customers.”

Angus Foundation raises $15,000 with sale of CAB barn painting

The Angus Foundation raised $15,000 with the auction of a highly desired Certified Angus Beef (CAB) barn painting at the 2022 Angus Convention in Salt Lake City, Utah. The painting was auctioned at the annual American Angus Association® Awards Dinner and Reception Sunday, Nov. 6 and was purchased by Gardiner Angus Ranch of Ashland, Kan. Funds raised will help further the Foundation’s mission of supporting Angus education, youth and research.

CAB will commission artist Troy Freeman to brand the Gardiner Angus Ranch barn and will also provide $1,000 to host a celebration event in conjunction with the barn painting. Funds raised will support a variety of programs including educational opportunities for breeders, leadership development conferences for Angus youth and groundbreaking industry research.

S.D. Angus Tour in planning

The South Dakota Angus Association will host a tour in the northwest portion of South Dakota in 2023.

Please watch the South Dakota Angus News for more details.

Angus Foundation to host 150 Years of Angus

The year 2023 marks 150 years since the first Angus bulls arrived in America. In 1873, George Grant settled in Victoria, Kan. with four Angus bulls from Scotland. To kick off this historical milestone, the Angus Foundation will host a 150 Years of Angus celebration during Cattlemen’s Congress at 5 p.m. on Friday, January 6. The doors to the Cattlemen’s Bar in Barn 3 at the Oklahoma City Fairgrounds will open at 4:30 p.m. for the event.

The evening of Angus fellowship will feature door prizes and auction items to benefit the Foundation’s mission, food and refreshments and the announcement of the 2023 Angus Herdsman of the Year. All are welcome to join the celebration and enjoy time spent with the Angus family. There is no RSVP required or ticket necessary.

“We are excited to host Angus breeders and friends for an evening to celebrate the great history of our breed at Cattlemen’s Congress,” said Jaclyn Boester, Angus Foundation executive director. “We’re proud of the Angus legacy built over the past 150 years, and we know through the work of the Foundation and our supporters, the future looks just as promising.”

The evening’s auction will feature several exciting lots, including an African Hunt donated by Numzaan Safaris, a Two-Night Wine Country Getaway for Six donated by Little Vineyards Family Winery and a Live Oak Plantation Experience and Quail Hunt donated by Circle G Angus Ranches. Funds raised through the auction items will benefit the Angus Fund, which provides unrestricted support for the Foundation’s mission of furthering Angus education, youth and research. The Foundation supports a diverse set of efforts focused on ensuring a bright future for the breed. Academic scholarships, leadership conferences, cutting-edge research and funding for the National Junior Angus Board are among the many programs sustained by the Angus Fund. For more information about the Angus Foundation, visit www.Angus-Foundation.org.

American Angus Association Awards Dinner and Reception

During the American Angus Association Convention in Salt Lake City Nov. 4 - 7 the highly anticipated American Angus Association Awards Dinner and Reception recognized several distinguished honorees. Honored as Angus Heritage Foundation inductees were Leo & Sam McDonnell, Montana; Dave Nichols, Iowa; Becky & the late Arlen Sawyer, Nebraska; and Jim & Sue Coleman, California.

Awarded the Roll of Victory Show Heifer of the Year was SSF Lady 5030 owned by Houston Ferree, Indiana.

The Roll of Victory Show Bull of the Year was Conley DS Clear Cut 0510 owned by Conley Cattle, Oklahoma; Ferree Fitzgerald, Indiana; and David Smith, Colorado.

Concluding the Roll of Victory recipients was Breeder of the Year awarded to Express Ranches, Oklahoma.

During the dinner reception, CAB recognized two recipients of producer awards. Achieving the Seedstock Commitment to Excellence award was Larson Angus Ranch, Kansas and honored for the Ambassador Award category was Walter Angus, Colorado.

A special Angus Foundation fundraiser took place with the auction of a CAB Barn Painting. When the gavel pounded, the painting was purchased by Gardiner Angus Ranch who generously invested $15,000 to further the Foundation’s mission of education, youth and research.

The announcement of a new Miss American Angus rounded out the program with Kelsey Theis, Kansas, being crowned for the 2022 to 2023 year.

FEATURING ANGUS

Treating Customers with Honesty:
Secret of Success for Palmquist Angus

By Sarah Hill

The Palmquists are mainstays of the Angus breed in the state of South Dakota and have been for decades. Having been in the cattle ranching and farming business for 66 years, Clayton Palmquist knows a thing or two about cattle, and Registered Angus is the breed that has proven to be the favorite for this cattle owner.

Over the Years

It all started as a 4-H beef project in 1956, when Palmquist bought two Registered Angus calves from another breeder. Palmquist served in the United States Army during the Vietnam crisis from 1964-1967. After returning home from the military, he bought an additional 56 bred cows. Today, the Palmquist herd has grown to a respectable 140 Registered Angus and commercial cows on 1,600 acres located near Wilmot, S.D. Clayton and his wife, Kathleen, run the operation and have hired additional labor for the cattle business. Their son, Collin, and his family also come from Watertown to pitch in when needed.

Clayton says that treating customers honestly has been the family's secret to success all these years—and it has paid dividends.

Many Benefits

"We prefer Registered Angus for their fertility, high market demand, easy calving that results in more live calves, efficient production capability and extra pounds at weaning," he says. "We've selected bulls to breed our females to that have easy calving while also increasing quality grade, such as Capitalist, Reflection, Timeless and Werner War Party."

The Palmquists strive to improve their Registered Angus cattle by improving calving, maternal traits and rapid gain once calves reach the feedlot.

First calf heifers are bred to calve out in the spring, starting around March 15, followed by the rest of the females calving out after April 1.

Cows are allowed to graze cornstalks in the fall, and the winter ration is typically corn silage, ground hay and alfalfa.

"With the drought this year, we'll also be feeding oats over the winter," Palmquist adds. "Our herd grazes native pasture during the summer months."

The Palmquists market their cattle by utilizing local advertising to sell breeding stock. Calves are sold on the grid to a feedlot cattle, ending up with one of the Tyson packing plants. However, like all Western cattle producers, the Palmquist herd has been impacted by the drought.

"We rotate pastures every week and have had to increase the use of cornstalks as winter feed," he says. "My old saying is that creek water and cornstalks plus Registered Angus cows produces excellent beef."

Special Achievements

Raising Registered Angus cattle has brought the Palmquist family prosperity and a great life for raising and enjoying their family. Clayton Palmquist is a lifetime member of the American Angus Association. In 1993, Collin was awarded state honors in the National 4-H Beef project. Clayton and Kathleen's daughter, Jennifer, served honorably as South Dakota Angus Queen in 1986.

The family also enjoyed success in the Registered Angus showing back in the 1980s, both locally and nationally. Their showing success included exhibiting the 1984 Grand Champion Angus Female at the Sioux Empire Farm Show and the 1985 Grand Champion Steer at the Watertown Farm Show.

"We've also shown many years at the National Western Stock Show in Denver," Clayton adds. "We've shown at the South Dakota State Fair for 65 years."

Looking Forward

As the Palmquist Angus operation moves into the third decade of the 21st century, they plan to continue improving the quality of their Registered Angus herd and their production practices. They have struggled with the same challenges that all South Dakota Angus breeders are facing, including inflation, high fuel costs, taxes and increasing costs for repairs and everyday expenses on the ranch.

"The Angus breed has a great future," Clayton says. "Inflation has hurt demand for beef. We spend winters in Arizona, and I often watch and talk to customers at the meat counter in grocery stores. Many have said that they buy chicken now rather than beef due to inflation."

Parentage required!

By Jerry Cassady, Director of Member Services

Perhaps the single most problematic phone call we receive in the Member Services department revolves around unavailable DNA necessary to meet a registration requirement.

Without the DNA submission, parentage markers are not available, and the registration requirement cannot be met. DNA samples need to be submitted to extract parentage markers to have on file at the American Angus Association.

This is typically associated with donor females flushed in the past where embryos were created and frozen for future use.

In the event a donor female unexpectedly dies or is culled from the herd and the breeder fails to realize DNA is required on all donor dams, the necessary parentage markers required to meet the registration rules would not be available. Unfortunately, the resulting embryo transfer (ET) calves would not meet the rule requirements and registrations would not be allowed.

This leaves the breeder extremely frustrated and unable to register the resulting ET calves.

Parentage rules

The parentage rules associated with required

DNA are simple and clear and can be found in several locations within the Breeder's Reference Guide. It is important to remember two basic rules for DNA and subsequent parentage markers required for registrations:

1. All sires permitted for artificial insemination (AI) must be DNA-marker-typed with the Association.
2. All donor dams must be DNA-marker-typed with the Association.

From the Breeder's Reference Guide definitions section, we find in the context of parentage testing, DNA Marker Typing means the animal in question has had a blood, hair, tissue, semen or other biological sample collected; DNA has been extracted; and extracted DNA has been used to determine the genotype for bovine parentage markers as defined by the International Society for Animal Genetics (ISAG). Extraction and genotyping must be conducted by an Association-approved laboratory.

The requirement for AI sires is typically not an issue, as a previously collected straw of semen can be sent for parentage marker extraction. It is not that convenient with donor dams, and once they are gone, so goes the DNA availability.

Inferred Parentage process

In the event a donor female is unavailable for DNA sampling, the Association does offer a service to work backwards to get parentage verification. This process is called the "Inferred Parentage" process.

If there is sufficient DNA on enough unrelated progeny (different sires represented), parent verification can be possible.

The Association makes no guarantee this effort will be successful, but we do offer the service as a last resort for those cases with unavailable DNA.

The inferred process calls for a minimum of four progeny to get the markers high enough using current DNA technology. In some cases, this process requires more than four progeny, depending on the genetic relationships. In addition, we must have at least one known parent with parentage markers on file.

This procedure requires progeny and does not allow the use of collateral relatives. The inferred marker process does come with an additional fee, plus the original fee for parentage on each submitted calf.

For example, if a donor has expired without DNA collection and the breeder has requested the inferred process on the donor female, the Association would need samples on four progeny of the donor female and would require parentage markers to be on file on all four of the sires of these calves.

Another example would be the opposite — if the sire was expired without DNA secured and the breeder was requesting to infer the sire, we would require four progeny from the sire, and all four of the dams of these four progeny would need to have parentage markers on file with the Association.

Remember to collect DNA samples

The Member Services department only offers the inferred process as a last resort, as a DNA sample is always preferred. The resources invested in creating these resulting ET calves can be substantial, please do not overlook this necessary step.

Remember to get DNA samples collected on each donor female in your program and keep a second sample at your farm or ranch as insurance.

Feedlot Forum 2023 will feature strategies to increase income

Feedlot Forum 2023 returns to the Terrace View Event Center in Sioux Center on Jan. 17 with a production-focused agenda. Iowa State University Extension and Outreach beef specialist Beth Doran said the session presenters will provide information to increase income for beef producers and allied agri-business professionals.

"This year's short, power-packed program features strategies to improve the profitability of the feedlot enterprise," she said. "We also have more than 20 sponsors with cutting edge technologies to help enhance feedlot returns."

Zach Smith, assistant professor in animal science at South Dakota State University, will begin the day by sharing research on best management practices to enhance the feeding value of high moisture corn and earlage. With the accelerated cost of feed, maximizing nutritional quality of feed is an effective way to improve cattle performance and reduce the number of days cattle are on feed.

There will be multiple other speakers that day including topics on manure management and markets.

The event page on the IBC website has more information on the program and links to the flyer and online registration. Registration is $25 per adult and $10 per student, and is due Jan. 10. Payment may be made online with a credit card or mailed to ISU Extension and Outreach Sioux County, 400 Central Ave. NW, Suite 700, Orange City, IA 51041.

Bob Styles of S.D. chosen as Angus Breeder of the Year

Bob Styles of Brentford, S.D. was chosen as Breeder of the Year by the South Dakota Angus Association. Bob and the rest of the Styles Family were honored with the award at the annual South Dakota Angus Banquet on Dec. 3 at the Arrowhead Resort in Chamberlain, S.D.

Bob's parents Lowell and Myrtle Styles purchased "Plainview Farm" from Lowell's Uncle Robert J. Styles in the late 1940's. It was at this time they started raising commercial Angus cattle and eventually the herd progressed into a registered Angus herd. It is documented that Lowell purchased his first set of cattle for $150 per head.

Bob showed cattle all throughout his youth when he was active in 4-H and into his adulthood. He took cattle to the Watertown Winter Farm Show and was chosen Champion Angus Heifer 7 years in a row. No easy feat.

A short time after Bob and Lucy married in 1968, a large number of registered Angus cows were purchased to expand the operation. They had their first production sale in 1977 and will be hosting their 45th production sale March of 2023.

In addition to the cattle, the Styles family raises corn and soybeans.

Bob also is a musician. Bob was a member of many bands throughout his lifetime including the Bob Styles Band where Lucy was also a member and played Bass guitar. He somehow balanced the farm/ranch work and his music often times getting home from a gig in the middle of the night and being up early feeding cows with just a couple hours of sleep. They traveled all over playing music and even opened a few cattle sales playing music including the Windy Acres and Krebs Ranch sales.

Bob won a singing competition and his reward was a trip to

Bob Styles of Brentford, S.D. was chosen as Breeder of the Year by the South Dakota Angus Association. He accepted the honor at the association's annual banquet on Dec. 3, 2022. He is shown with family (l to r): Doug and Laura Braun, Chris and Erica Styles, Bob Styles, Sawyer and Tina Birgen.

Nashville to sing on the iconic Grand Ol' Opry stage. He was offered a 2 year recording contract but turned it down to raise his family and get back to ranching/farming. Lucy was integral in all facets of the family business. Lucy passed away in 2012 after a prolonged battle with cancer. Bob, now 75 years young, continues to work on the farm and still have some fun playing gigs here and there. In an interview Bob gave in 2006 he was quoted as saying "I enjoy the farming part, but I live and breathe the cattle. I love to watch them grow and have met so many friends through the years. It's a great way to live."

South Dakota is #4 for Angus registrations in the nation

AMERICAN ANGUS ASSOCIATION

South Dakota ranks fourth in the nation with 21,625 animals registered with the American Angus Association. The 10 producers who registered the most Angus beef cattle in the state of South Dakota recorded a total of 5409 Angus with the American Angus Association® during fiscal year 2022, which ended Sept. 30, according to Mark McCully, Association chief executive officer.

The 10 top recorders in South Dakota are: Jorgensen Ranches, Ideal; Edgar Bros, Rockham; Mick & Lynn Varilek, Geddes; Raven Angus, Colome; Blair Bros Angus, Sturgis; Thomas Ranch, Harrold; Vern Edward Koupal, Dante; Maher Angus Ranch, Morristown; Mohnen Angus Farms, White Lake; Schaack Ranch, Wall.

Angus breeders across the nation in 2022 registered 304,822 head of Angus cattle. “Our Association members lead the industry in adopting new technology and breeding the most problem-free cattle for their customers,” McCully said. “Cattlemen across the country continue to find registered Angus seedstock are the most profitable option for their herd.”

South Dakota Leopold Conservation Award seeks nominees

Nominations and applications are now being accepted for the 2023 South Dakota Leopold Conservation Award®. The $10,000 award honors ranchers, farmers and forestland owners who go above and beyond in their management of soil health, water quality and wildlife habitat on working land.

Sand County Foundation and national sponsor American Farmland Trust present the Leopold Conservation Award to private landowners in 24 states. In South Dakota, the award is presented with the South Dakota Cattlemen’s Association and the South Dakota Grassland Coalition.

Given in honor of renowned conservationist Aldo Leopold, the award recognizes landowners who inspire others with their dedication to land, water and wildlife habitat management on private, working land. In his influential 1949 book, “A Sand County Almanac,” Leopold called for an ethical relationship between people and the land they own and manage. Nominations may be submitted on behalf of a landowner, or landowners may nominate themselves. The application can be found at sandcountyfoundation.org/ApplyLCA.

The application deadline is March 6, 2023. Applications can be emailed to award@sandcountyfoundation.org. If mailed, applications must be postmarked by March 6 and mailed to:

Leopold Conservation Award
c/o South Dakota Cattlemen’s Association
P.O. Box 1258
Pierre, SD 57501

Selected recipients must be available to host a tour and video production team during the summer, and participate in a fall award presentation.

The 2022 recipient of the award was Bien Ranch of Veblen.

The Leopold Conservation Award Program in South Dakota made possible thanks to the generous support of American Farmland Trust, South Dakota Cattlemen’s Association, South Dakota Grassland Coalition, Sand County Foundation, First Dakota National Bank, South Dakota Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources, South Dakota Farm Bureau Federation, South Dakota Game, Fish & Parks; South Dakota

Elite genetics in five January sales

Offerings will sell at Cattlemen’s Congress and the National Western Stock Show.

The Angus Foundation announced its plans to offer four elite heifer pregnancies, along with the Angus Foundation Heifer Package, in January 2023. The pregnancies will sell in Oklahoma City during Cattlemen’s Congress at the Bases Loaded, Denim and Diamonds, and Angus at the Congress sales, and in Denver at the Angus Foundation Female Sale at the National Western Stock Show. Lathrop Livestock Services has also donated complimentary trucking of the females. Funds raised by the pregnancies further the Foundation’s mission to support Angus education, youth and research.

“We are thrilled to offer such an exciting set of heifer pregnancies in the month of January,” said Jaclyn Boester, Angus Foundation executive director. “We’re thankful for the generosity of the breeders who have donated these pregnancies and their commitment to the Foundation’s mission.”

In addition to the pregnancies, the Angus Foundation Heifer Package will sell at the National Angus Bull Sale, Jan. 6, 2023 in Oklahoma City during Cattlemen’s Congress. The 2023 Angus Foundation Heifer Package is being donated by Coleman Angus of Charlo, Mont. The heifer, Coleman Chloe 173 (AAA+*20076459), is the highest $M valued Coleman Chloe female in the ranch’s herd and is backed by a pedigree represented by the operation’s most notable cow families. She is due to calve to Coleman Full Deck 118 on January 20, 2023. The heifer package also includes an Advanced Reproductive Technology Package from Trans Ova Genetics, trucking to the buyer donated by Lathrop Livestock Services and 30 days of mortality insurance donated by Liberty Specialty Markets.

For more information about the heifer pregnancies or the Angus Foundation Heifer Package, contact Boester at JBoester@Angus.org. To learn more about the Angus Foundation, visit www.Angus-Foundation.org.

S.D. Big Sioux River Watershed Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program opens

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the State of South Dakota are expanding their partnership through the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) to assist South Dakota farmers, ranchers and agricultural landowners in improving water quality, reducing soil erosion, enhancing wildlife habitat, and creating public hunting and fishing access. The Big Sioux River Watershed CREP, offered by USDA and the South Dakota Department of Game, Fish & Parks, (SD GF&P) expands the voluntary, incentive-based conservation programs available to South Dakota agricultural producers and focuses on the Big Sioux River watershed. Enrollment for the South Dakota CREP opened November 1, 2022.

“CREP is one of our most flexible tools when it comes to voluntary, locally led, partner-driven conservation efforts, and we’re so glad that we’re able to put it to work in South Dakota,” said Steve Dick, USDA Farm Service Agency State Director in South Dakota. “This initiative will have a positive impact in South Dakota, and we look forward to broadening the reach of the program to new agricultural producers and landscapes. We are so grateful to have support from South Dakota leaders to make this program possible.”

“Landowners and producers in the Big Sioux River watershed are eligible for this program,” said Kevin Robling, GFP Secretary. “The difference between CREP and CRP is that public hunting and fishing access is required on CREP enrolled acres and participants receive a higher total payment than if they just enroll in CRP.”

Through the South Dakota CREP, federal and state resources are made available to program participants to voluntarily enroll in CRP contracts and public land access agreements with the State of South Dakota for 10-to-15-years. Participants restore cropland and marginal pastureland to grasses, wetlands, or other approved vegetation. This will improve water quality by reducing sediment, nutrients, nitrogen, and other pollutants from entering streams and rivers, and enhance wildlife habitat in the project area. In return, FSA provides participants with cost-share assistance and annual rental payments, and SD GF&P provides an additional annual rental payment for the enrolled acres open to walk-in public hunting and fishing access.

Eligible practices include permanent wildlife habitat, filter strips, wetland restorations, rare and declining habitat for prairie, duck nesting habitat, prairie strips, marginal pastureland wildlife habitat buffers, and marginal pastureland buffers.

“We are excited to partner with SD GF&P to offer this great watershed conservation incentive for South Dakota landowners and producers,” Dick said. “Working together, we can deliver critical environmental benefits through voluntary conservation efforts, enhance agricultural productivity, and improve water quality in South Dakota, the Big Sioux River watershed, and downstream.”

The South Dakota CREP includes all or portions of the following 18 counties in the Big Sioux River Watershed: Brookings, Clark, Clay, Codington, Day, Deuel, Grant, Hamlin, Kingsbury, Lake, Lincoln, Marshall, McCook, Minnehaha, Moody, Roberts, Turner, and Union counties.

Eligible participants can qualify for annual rental payments, cost share for installing the approved conservation practices, and incentive payments for certain practices. In addition, SD GF&P will provide eligible participants additional annual rental payment.

Interested farmers, ranchers, and agricultural landowners are encouraged to contact the Farm Service Agency (FSA) at their local USDA Service Center, a Pheasants Forever Farm Bill Biologist, or GFP private lands habitat biologist to learn more or to participate. Find contact information at farmers.gov/service-locator.

Classic Beef Wellington

Recipe courtesy of Beef Loving Texans
Total time: 1 hour, 30 minutes
Servings: 4

- 1 teaspoon olive oil, divided
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper, divided
- 1 chateaubriand tenderloin roast
- 8 ounces mushrooms
- 1 large shallot
- 2 tablespoons dry red wine
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
- flour
- 1 sheet puff pastry

In large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat, heat 1/2 teaspoon oil until hot. Combine salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Press evenly onto all surfaces of roast. Place roast in skillet; brown evenly. Remove roast from skillet.
Heat oven to 425 F.
In food processor, pulse mushrooms and shallot about 10 times until finely chopped. Do not overprocess.
Place same skillet used for roast over medium-high heat and heat remaining oil until hot. Add mushrooms and shallot; cook 4-6 minutes until tender and all liquid is evaporated, stirring often. Add wine; cook 2-3 minutes until all liquid is evaporated. Stir in mustard, thyme and remaining pepper. Cook 2-3 minutes. Remove from skillet to medium bowl; cool.
Line rimmed baking sheet with aluminum foil and place in oven. On lightly floured cutting board, unfold pastry dough. Roll pastry out to 12-by-9-inch rectangle; lay dough with shortest edge toward you. Spread mushroom mixture onto pastry dough, leaving 1/2-inch border around edges. Place roast in center of mushrooms. Fold pastry dough neatly around roast, stretching dough if necessary. Cut off excess pastry dough; press to seal overlapping edges.
Remove baking sheet from oven and dust lightly with flour. Place pastry-wrapped roast, seam-side down, on baking sheet. Cut four (2-inch) vents in top of pastry.
Bake 35-50 minutes, or until golden brown and instant-read thermometer inserted into center of roast registers 135 F for medium-rare or 150 F for medium. Transfer roast to carving board. Let stand 10 minutes. Temperature will rise about 10 F to reach 145 F for medium-rare or 160F for medium.
Carve into slices and serve.

Top Sirloin Roast with Herb Garlic Peppercorn Crust

Recipe courtesy of Beef Loving Texans
Total time: 45 minutes
Servings: 8

- 1 center-cut sirloin beef roast (about 3 pounds)
- 1 tablespoon olive oil

Seasoning:
2 teaspoons kosher salt
2 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped
2 tablespoons fresh thyme, chopped
5 cloves garlic, minced
2 teaspoons coarsely ground mixed peppercorns (black, white, green and pink)

Preheat oven to 350 F.
Rub roast with olive oil.
To make seasoning: In small bowl, combine salt, parsley, thyme, garlic and mixed peppercorns; press evenly into beef roast.
Place roast in roasting pan or baking dish with wire rack in bottom. Bake 40-60 minutes. Remove roast when meat thermometer registers 135 F for medium-rare or 150 F for medium.
Transfer roast to carving board; tent loosely with aluminum foil. Let stand 10-15 minutes. Temperature will rise about 10 F to reach 145 F for medium-rare or 160 F for medium.
Carve roast into slices by cutting against grain.

South Dakota youth encouraged to apply for Angus internships

Applications for four internships are open until January 10, 2023

In a world full of opportunity, internship experiences allow students the best trial-run. The American Angus Association is excited to announce four internship positions for the summer of 2023. These 10-week internship programs provide a unique, hands-on experience to allow students to grow and prosper while dipping their toes in the workforce.

“This internship is one of the most unique opportunities in the cattle industry for young professionals,” said Ian Kane, 2022 intern. “The Association staff is welcoming, helpful and are great teachers, plus you get to travel and meet with Angus breeders — I just can’t say enough about this experience.”

Internships allow students to gain industry-relevant experience and refine their skills, but the value of networking and working alongside the team at the Association will prove valuable for a lifetime. The summer 2023 internship experience will be filled with Angus cattle, tasty beef and a staff eager to share knowledge and wisdom.

The four internships being offered are join a multi-media effort, which includes the Angus Journal® print publication and the AJ Daily electronic newsletter, as well as the Angus Journal’s website and social media presence. The internship can be tailored to the intern’s strengths, but many duties can be anticipated, including traveling to industry events. Experience in news and feature writing, editing and photography are strongly suggested.

Communications: From print stories to video scripts, photography, graphic design and more, the communications intern will truly gain valuable agricultural communications experience. Applicants should have strong writing and design skills and have completed coursework in news and feature writing, editing and design. Experience in photography, video and social media is preferred.

Events & Junior Activities: The intern will assist in planning and executing youth events hosted by the National Junior Angus Association (NJAA), including preparations, correspondence and coordination for junior shows and events. Applicants should be self-starters, detail-oriented and outgoing with the ability to work well with others. Livestock and event planning experience is preferred, but not required. Travel to the 2023 National Junior Angus Show (NJAS), Leaders Engaged in Angus Development (LEAD) Conference and other events is expected.

Angus Genetics Inc. (AGI): Students pursuing their master’s degree or Ph.D. in animal breeding and genetics are encouraged to apply for the AGI summer internship. The intern will have the opportunity to work with one of the world’s largest beef genomic databases. The internship will focus on research that involves data analysis, therefore candidates should have experience in analyzing animal breeding data sets and genomic data.

For more information and a full description of each internship opportunity, visit angus.org/careers. Students who wish to apply should upload their resume, cover letter and references to by January 10, 2023.
